BANKERS HONOR J. E. SHEPARD ANOTHER TERM

M. S. Browning Elected President of Association After H. E. Hatch Declines the Nomination

Salt Lake City, June 12.—Desiring the nomination for president H. E. Hatch of Logan, retired in favor of the election of M. S. Browning yesterday afternoon as head of the Utah Bankers' association. Mr. Browning's election was quickly made unanimous.

John Pingree president of the Merchants' Bank, of Salt Lake, was elected first vice president. George C. Whitmore, president of the Nephel State Bank, was chosen second vice president. J. E. Shepard, cashier of the Cache Valley Banking Company, of Logan, was unanimously reelected to his sixth consecutive term as secretary.

Guy Lewis of Richfield, P. P. Dyring of Manti and E. O. Howard of Walker Brothers Bank were selected as members of the executive committee. J. A. Mallie of the National Copper Bank was reelected as representative of the American Institute of Banking on the executive committee of the association.

The passage of a resolution for the appointment of a commission of five members of the association to study the present methods of banking in the state and make recommendations to the next convention was one of the principal matters of business transacted at the closing session. The commission is to be named by the association's executive committee.

Dr. John A. Widtsoe, president of the Utah Agricultural College and Governor William Spry delivered the closing addresses yesterday afternoon, both men urging closer cooperation between banker and farmer for the ultimate good of both.

Yesterday afternoon there was a sightseeing trip following the closing session. Last night the visiting bankers were entertained by the Salt Lake financiers at a grand ball in the Hotel Utah, this concluding the social program of the convention.

Although the convention left the selection of the next meeting city to the executive committee it is considered likely that Ogden will get the plum, having been a strong contender for the honor.

LARGE BEET ACREAGE IN THIS VALLEY

Farmers Should Get Cultivators on the Land, According to Manager Quinney

The sugar beet crop in Cache valley never looked better according to Joseph Quinney Jr., manager of the Amalgamated Sugar Company interests here. "We will have 15,000 acres of beets to harvest this season," said Mr. Quinney yesterday, while talking on this subject. "This is the largest acreage by far, that we have ever had in this valley. Three-fourths of the crop is already thinned and growing fine. The other fourth would have been thinned but for the weather conditions which have not permitted the farmers to get on their land. I would advise the farmers to get out with their cultivators as soon as possible to kill the weeds and keep the beets growing."

Resignation of Mr. Bryan Was Predicted For Some Time.

The resignation of Secretary of State Bryan brought the event which had been predicted almost daily since he took office under President Wilson on March 5, 1913. How intense and deep-seated was Mr. Bryan's passion for the promotion of peace was signified in the first weeks of his incumbency of the great office. He publicly announced in March, 1913, that the United States never would have a war while he was secretary of state. This remark created a more profound impression abroad than it did in this country, as has since been evidenced in many ways.

THE GARLAND UMPIRE IS CRITICISED

Logan Baseball Players Say They Were Not Given a Square Deal

The Logan boys representing the Howell Cardon baseball nine, returned from Garland on Sunday night, where they had played an afternoon game of ball and lost on an umpire's bad decision by the score of 7 to 5. Up to the seventh innings the umpire seemed to get a fair grasp of the game, but after that he was "rotten" according to the local fans. The Garland players, thought so, too, as they took him out and substituted another "rube" who was no better than the first man. While Rose of the local team struck out fourteen men his team lost the game and they only had two errors chalked up to the players. For the Garland players, Manager Christensen of the Howell Cardon team, has nothing but praise and says they are all good, clean sports.

The Howell Cardon team will meet the Preston team in Logan on Saturday and as the game played in Preston a week ago ended so close, 3 to 1, there is much interest in the game and a good crowd should get out and support the local boys.

UNABLE TO UNDERSTAND THE ACTION OF BRYAN

Berlin Sunday Morning Papers Make Varying Comments on Resignation

Berlin, June 13, via London.—The Sunday morning papers of Berlin generally profess inability to understand the motives prompting William Jennings Bryan to retire from the post of secretary of state. The Morgan Post says:

"The former secretary seems to have less confidence than we in the honest desire of the American government to arrive at a peaceful compromise with us. Mr. Bryan is convinced that President Wilson and his government will finally appeal to force. We are not now disposed to believe this, but will await events."

The Boersen Zeitung says:

"Bryan's resignation has been interpreted as indicating that the note would be rather blunt, which however, is nowise the case. The note shows, on the contrary, an outspoken tendency to reach an understanding with Germany on the issues involved. If, therefore, Bryan desires to be the representative of peaceful efforts in opposition to the jingoistic tendency of the American government we really do not know on what ground he will base his assertion."

The Boersen Zeitung terms Mr. Bryan's proclamation to the people even harder to understand than is his resignation.

The Tageblatt suspects that practical political differences played a part in the resignation of the secretary, saying:

"It may be safely assumed that Bryan did not leave office in order to withdraw himself from political life."

The Reichshote commenting on the American note, says:

"Either the tone was subdued following Bryan's sensational resignation or Bryan desired to take advantage of an opportunity to escape easily from a situation which no longer was pleasant."

The Deutsche Rundschau says: "After seeing the note, it must be said that Mr. Bryan either was happy or else other reasons yet unknown decided his actions."

Henry Peterson, deputy game warden in Blacksmith Fork canyon, was a Logan visitor on Saturday, having come to town to lay in a supply of tackle, says the fishing will be as good in Blacksmith Fork canyon this year as in the past. The water, however, is very low on Rock creek and the owners of the property near the Hardware ranch prohibit fishermen from trespassing on their land so much of the good fishing territory will be eliminated, unless one can wade the stream.

INSTRUCTIVE PAMPHLET ON LANDS OF UTAH

Issued by Passenger Department of D. & R. G. Railroad. Subject Matter by Dr. Peterson

One of the most interesting and instructive pamphlets on Utah yet written, has just been issued by the Passenger Department of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad. In the map of the West, Utah is shown in living green—the "Center of Attraction" with all water courses, established towns and routes of travel, clearly shown. The illustrations have been chosen with care and impress the reader with the great and varied agricultural resources of this good state of ours.

The subject matter was prepared by Dr. E. G. Peterson, Director of Agricultural Extension of our State Agricultural College. Dr. Peterson is so thoroughly familiar with the agriculture of Utah that the very fact the "Lands of Utah" was written by him, speaks for its reliability and authenticity. No man in Utah is better posted on the settlement and agricultural development of this commonwealth than is this man at the head of the Extension work in many lines, which our college is now doing for our farmers.

The pamphlet tells the reader, "The prime wealth of Utah is her marvelously rich soil, washed down, through countless centuries, in large measure from mountains of limestone which impart to the soil the necessary chemical reaction for the best growth of plants. Magic is the word which described the productivity of the 22,000,000 acres of land capable of cultivation within the State. Chemists tell us repeatedly and the yields verify their story, that Utah soil is the choicest in the world. Sociologists tell us that such rich soil produces compact rural settlement. Compact rural settlement presumes the development of good roads, excellent schools and churches, and other evidences of prosperity and enlightenment and a resultant rural civilization not possible under other conditions. This is the future of Utah and irrigation agriculture."

"The history of older civilizations, Egypt, India, China and Japan—tells us that the highest civilization of the past has existed where irrigation was practiced. The new and more enlightened civilization of today likewise will be carried to its highest achievement in the great irrigation empire of the Rocky Mountains."

This is, as it were, the preface of the pamphlet and is followed by facts and figures which demonstrate what is now being done in dairying, poultry, hog, sheep and general livestock farming, fruit, sugar beet and diversified crop farming in our state.

For the first time, Carey Act Projects in Utah are described and classified. Under the caption "Gleaned Facts New Settlers Should Know," are given the answers to questions the seeker of a home wants to know about a prospective location. A concise description of the Uintah Basin, which is full of information on this region of opportunity, is also found in "Lands of Utah."

This pamphlet is not only being distributed throughout the East and Middle West by representatives of the Denver & Rio Grande and connecting lines, but thousands of copies are being sought for and obtained by the multitudes this season visiting the Denver & Rio Grande Western Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Iron Mountain Exhibit at the Panama Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, and at the Utah Building at San Diego, many of whom are seeking new home locations. It is impossible to measure the resultant good to our State which this instructive, interesting and most beautifully illustrated new edition of "Lands of Utah," can bring. It must be seen to be fully appreciated. The Rio Grande Road is to be complimented on the issuance of this excellent publication.
